

---

Duplicate Collection

---

Drawing on memories rather than directly referencing existing work has long been a method to reinvigorate the creative process in many different fields, from music, to art, to type design. Duplicate began as an attempt by Christian Schwartz to draw Roger Excoffon's iconic 20th century sans serif Antique Olive from memory. The result was a typeface with a personality all its own, which is now five related families: three sans serifs and two serifs.

---

PUBLISHED

2013, 2017

DESIGNED BY

CHRISTIAN SCHWARTZ AND MIGUEL REYES

60 STYLES

5 FAMILIES

FAMILIES

DUPLICATE SANS
DUPLICATE SLAB
DUPLICATE IONIC
DUPLICATE ROUND
DUPLICATE SOFT

The five families in the Duplicate collection have the same coordinated set of six weights, allowing them to be used together seamlessly. Designed for use at both text and display, Duplicate is suitable for a wide range of uses, from newspapers and magazines through to graphic design and corporate design.

THIN Duplicate Duplicate Sans	THIN Duplicate Duplicate Slab	THIN Duplicate Duplicate Ionic	THIN Duplicate Duplicate Round	THIN Duplicate Duplicate Soft	THIN Duplicate Duplicate Sans Condensed
LIGHT Duplicate Duplicate Sans	LIGHT Duplicate Duplicate Slab	LIGHT Duplicate Duplicate Ionic	LIGHT Duplicate Duplicate Round	LIGHT Duplicate Duplicate Soft	LIGHT Duplicate Duplicate Sans Condensed
REGULAR Duplicate Duplicate Sans	REGULAR Duplicate Duplicate Slab	REGULAR Duplicate Duplicate Ionic	REGULAR Duplicate Duplicate Round	REGULAR Duplicate Duplicate Soft	REGULAR Duplicate Duplicate Sans Condensed
MEDIUM Duplicate Duplicate Sans	MEDIUM Duplicate Duplicate Slab	MEDIUM Duplicate Duplicate Ionic	MEDIUM Duplicate Duplicate Round	MEDIUM Duplicate Duplicate Soft	MEDIUM Duplicate Duplicate Sans Condensed
BOLD Duplicate Duplicate Sans	BOLD Duplicate Duplicate Slab	BOLD Duplicate Duplicate Ionic	BOLD Duplicate Duplicate Round	BOLD Duplicate Duplicate Soft	BOLD Duplicate Duplicate Sans Condensed
BLACK Duplicate Duplicate Sans	BLACK Duplicate Duplicate Slab	BLACK Duplicate Duplicate Ionic	BLACK Duplicate Duplicate Round	BLACK Duplicate Duplicate Soft	BLACK Duplicate Duplicate Sans Condensed

---

Duplicate Sans

---

Roger Excoffon's Antique Olive was a departure from the grotesks popular in Europe in the middle of the 20th century, and remains evocative of France. In 2007, Christian Schwartz decided to see what he would get if he tried to draw Antique Olive from memory. Duplicate Sans was the result: a family reminiscent of Antique Olive but with a personality all its own. Duplicate Sans was first used in the 2011 redesign of Fast Company.

---

PUBLISHED
2013

DESIGNED BY
CHRISTIAN SCHWARTZ

12 STYLES
6 WEIGHTS W/ ITALICS

FEATURES
PROPORTIONAL LINING FIGURES
TABULAR LINING FIGURES
SUPERSCRIP/T/SUBSCRIPT
FRACTIONS (PREBUILT AND ARBITRARY)

Schwartz was inspired to try the exercise of drawing a typeface from memory after reading many interviews with musicians who described stumbling upon their signature sound via the same process. He wanted to see what he would remember correctly and what he would get wrong, as well as to see what the relationship would be between the inspiration and the result. Though it shares some structural similarities with Antique Olive – and a handful of details, like the shape of the lowercase a – Duplicate Sans is not a revival, but rather a thoroughly contemporary homage to Excoffon. Duplicate Sans is intended for both text and headline use, in a range of six weights.

NORTHUMBRIA
Establecimiento

DUPLICATE SANS THIN, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

BÜHNENSTÜCK
Understandably

DUPLICATE SANS THIN ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE y]

NIÐURSTAÐAN
Incominciaron

DUPLICATE SANS LIGHT, 70 PT

EXPÉRIMENTÉ
Juxtapositional

DUPLICATE SANS LIGHT ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

RECOLECCIÓN
Ausgezeichnet

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, 70 PT

SENSATIONAL
Métropolitaine

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR ITALIC, 70 PT

ÉVÉNEMENTS
Pathologically

DUPLICATE SANS MEDIUM, 70 PT

ØKONOMISKE
Federalització

DUPLICATE SANS MEDIUM ITALIC, 70 PT

MESOLITHICS
Äquipotential

DUPLICATE SANS BOLD, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

LJÓÐAHÁTR
Entraînement

DUPLICATE SANS BOLD ITALIC, 70 PT

RESUMPTIVE
Solsystemets

DUPLICATE SANS BLACK, 70 PT

ALTERAÇÕES
Evolutionary

DUPLICATE SANS BLACK ITALIC, 70 PT

EL POTENCIAL ARQUEOLÓGICO DE LA ZONA
An opportunity to debate the contextual issues
DÉSIGNERONS LES CHAMPS EXPLICITEMENT
Die Nordseeflüsse entwässern etwa 841.110 km<sup>2</sup>

DUPLICATE SANS THIN, THIN ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE Q]

ISTITUTO NORDICO PER LA FISICA TEORICA
Het woord is echter inmiddels zo ingeburgerd
BINATIONAL FEDERATION OF EXCHEQUERS
Den indtræffer ved fuldmåne og ved nymåne

DUPLICATE SANS LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, 24 PT

EN LA ANTIGUA CIUDAD DE SAGALASSOS
Organiserade sig i Aten omkring år 680 f.Kr.
DIE EINTEILUNG IN SEEGBIETE ERLAUBT
Inclined at  $\frac{3}{5}$  feet off of the standard width

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, 24 PT

THE WORLD'S FASTEST GROWING CITIES
At 121 g CO<sub>2</sub>/MJ, carbon dioxide emissions
KONE ESITELTIIN VIRALLISESTI VUONNA
Ce terme a une période angulaire de 1100°

DUPLICATE SANS MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a]

KIRJOITTI ENSIMMÄISEN SINFONIANSA
Mois anomalistique, de 27,5241499 jours
SERIES OF TEXTS & IMPORTANT ESSAYS
His country & rockabilly hits in the 1970s

DUPLICATE SANS BOLD, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a 9]

FALLEN UNDER THE EYE OF THE STORM
A Few Renegade Chefs & Fearless Eaters
POŁOŻONY NA WYBRZEŻU ATLANTYKU
Una época de las herramientas digitales

DUPLICATE SANS BOLD ITALIC, 24 PT

SOLD FOR VERY NEARLY £860 MILLION
Après avoir été renvoyé du collège, il va
DER GEGENWÄRTIGE CHEFREDAKTEUR
Ved opførelsen var tårnene de højeste i

DUPLICATE SANS BLACK, 24 PT [ALTERNATE G 6]

FÜR DAS FÜRSTENTUMS SÜDSCHILDER
Stock prices fell to an all-time low of 12¢
TRANSPOSING INSTRUMENTS PITCHED
De Excelência em Realizações Literárias

DUPLICATE SANS BLACK ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Bewustzijnstheorie

DUPLICATE SANS THIN, 60 PT

Neurotransmitted

DUPLICATE SANS LIGHT, 60 PT

Magnétostatique

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, 60 PT

Brytningsvinklar

DUPLICATE SANS MEDIUM, 60 PT

Draaisymmetrie

DUPLICATE SANS BOLD, 60 PT

Quantifications

DUPLICATE SANS BLACK, 60 PT [ALTERNATE Q a]

Morphophonology

DUPLICATE SANS THIN ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE g y]

Macrofabrications

DUPLICATE SANS LIGHT ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Desenvolvimento

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR ITALIC, 60 PT

Güçlendirilmiştir

DUPLICATE SANS MEDIUM ITALIC, 60 PT

Implementação

DUPLICATE SANS BOLD ITALIC, 60 PT

Übergeordnete

DUPLICATE SANS BLACK ITALIC, 60 PT

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 16/19 PT

REGULAR ALL CAPS

REGULAR

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

THE SPANISH WAR, which began in 1739, and the French war which soon followed it occasioned further increase of the debt, which, on the 31st of December 1748, after it had been concluded by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, amounted to £78,293,313. The most profound peace of the seventeen years of continuance had taken no more than £8,328,354 from it. A war of less than nine years' continuance added £31,338,689 to it (Refer to James Postlethwaite's History of the Public Revenue). During the administration of Mr. Pelham, the interest of the public debt was reduced from 4% to 3%; or at least measures were taken for reducing it, from four to three per cent; the sinking fund was increased, and some part of the public debt was paid off. In 1755, before the breaking out of the late war, the funded debt of Great Britain amounted to £72,289,673. On the 5th of January 1763, at the conclusion of the peace, the funded debt amounted to £122,603,336. The unfunded debt has been stated at £13,927,589. But the expense occasioned by the war did not end with the conclusion of the peace, so that though, on the 5th of January 1764, the funded debt was increased (partly by a new loan, and partly by funding a part of the unfunded debt) to £129,586,78, there still remained (according to the very well informed author of Considerations on the Trade and Finances of Great Britain) an unfunded debt which was brought to account in that and the following year of £975,017. In 1764, therefore, the public debt of Great Britain, funded

---

 DUPLICATE SANS LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, MEDIUM, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

---

 DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[NO ALTERNATES]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[ALTERNATE Q a g y 6 9 ]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

---

 DUPLICATE SANS REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 9/11 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into a joint stock. A few private traders, whose

---

 DUPLICATE SANS MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, BLACK, 9/11 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into a joint stock. A few private traders, whose subscriptions amounted only to seven

---

Duplicate Slab

---

When the idea of a serif companion for Duplicate Sans was requested by Fast Company, Christian Schwartz decided to take the most direct route. He simply added slabs to the sans in a straightforward manner, doing as little as possible to alter the proportions, contrast, and stylistic details in the process. Duplicate Slab therefore is the perfect match for Duplicate Sans.

---

PUBLISHED
2013

DESIGNED BY
CHRISTIAN SCHWARTZ

12 STYLES
6 WEIGHTS W/ ITALICS

FEATURES
PROPORTIONAL LINING FIGURES
TABULAR LINING FIGURES
SUPERSCRIPIT/SUBSCRIPT
FRACTIONS (PREBUILT AND ARBITRARY)

Because its skeleton is neither geometric nor traditionally humanist, Duplicate Slab has an atypical texture for a slab serif: warm and informal. It manages to be quite pretty in its lightest weights, and both friendly and forceful in its heaviest weight. Aside from the Thin and Black, which are designed only for use at larger display sizes, Duplicate Slab is intended for both text and headline use, in a range of six weights.

SACRAMENTO
 Þekkingarfræði

DUPLICATE SLAB THIN, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a æ g]

CAMOUFLAGE
Demonstrative

DUPLICATE SLAB THIN ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

CÓMPRASELO
 Ursprüngliche

DUPLICATE SLAB LIGHT, 70 PT

MOITTEETON
Counterpunch

DUPLICATE SLAB LIGHT ITALIC, 70 PT

FONOLÓGICO
Ankündigung

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, 70 PT

EXPRESIVITA
Irrepreensível

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR ITALIC, 70 PT

FENOLOGICO
Investigación

DUPLICATE SLAB MEDIUM, 70 PT

EPICYCLICAL
Przekształcać

DUPLICATE SLAB MEDIUM ITALIC, 70 PT

AUFSTOSSEN
Illuminazioni

DUPLICATE SLAB BOLD, 70 PT

VERDEDIGDE
Genealogiske

DUPLICATE SLAB BOLD ITALIC, 70 PT

HIDROGÊNIO
Mustachioed

DUPLICATE SLAB BLACK, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

EPONYMOUS
Sjóráeningjar

DUPLICATE SLAB BLACK ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a œ]

NATIONALRÅDET HAR 11.000 LEDAMÖTER
 Very nearly  $\frac{7}{11}$  of respondents indicated that
UNITED STATES NATIONAL PARK SERVICE
Located in the heart of the Burgundy region

DUPLICATE SLAB THIN, THIN ITALIC, 24 PT

THEY SPIED THROUGH THE HAGIOSCOPE
 Finns det något att göra åt glädjebetygen
FRITT FRAM ATT BEDRIVA TORGHANDEL
Dieses Merkmal entstand ursprünglich als

DUPLICATE SLAB LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a]

TRYING TO FORMULATE DISTINCTIONS
 End-of-year revenues of over €2.7 million
LE DEUXIÈME RÉSEAU MONOCLINIQUE
Terrängbil 1312 är en radiolänkterrängbil

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, 24 PT

APARTE DE ÉSTOS, OTROS 80 ESTADOS
Wskazują że ma ona masę  $1,1 \pm 0,1 \text{ GeV}/c^2$
ZAHLREICHE RENAISSANCEGEBÄUDEN
Festival Internazionale del Film di Roma

DUPLICATE SLAB MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, 24 PT

ALLE PRÜFUNGEN FINDEN BEI CA. 24 %
The Most Prestigious Awards in History
RARE RECORDINGS HAD HIM IN SHOCK
Automechaniker erfindet Rettungstüte

DUPLICATE SLAB BOLD, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a g]

UNA STORIA DELLA MUSICA ITALIANA
Hoofdkwartier van de Verenigde Naties
TALL TALES & QUESTIONABLE QUERNS
Marcada por una constante creatividad

DUPLICATE SLAB BOLD ITALIC, 24 PT

LE QUARTET MYTHIQUE DE COLTRANE
Found over 1.25 million ersatz jade cats
HISTORIC TRAIL LAKES CAMPGROUND
A huge step toward material interfaces

DUPLICATE SLAB BLACK, 24 PT

COMPOSED BY THE CIVIL PARISHES OF
Has won the enthusiastic endorsement
EN AF DE VIGTIGSTE JAZZUDGIVELSER
A diferença entre ambas as medidas se

DUPLICATE SLAB BLACK ITALIC, 24 PT

Grandüklügü'nün

DUPLICATE SLAB THIN, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Acontecimientos

DUPLICATE SLAB LIGHT, 60 PT

Rijksuniversiteit

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, 60 PT

Åttahjulsdrivna

DUPLICATE SLAB MEDIUM, 60 PT

Concentrazione

DUPLICATE SLAB BOLD, 60 PT

Emulsifications

DUPLICATE SLAB BLACK, 60 PT

Maatschappelijke

DUPLICATE SLAB THIN ITALIC, 60 PT

Particulièrement

DUPLICATE SLAB LIGHT ITALIC, 60 PT

Suprasegmental

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE g]

Monochromatic

DUPLICATE SLAB MEDIUM ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Schießscharten

DUPLICATE SLAB BOLD ITALIC, 60 PT

Wyposażonymi

DUPLICATE SLAB BLACK ITALIC, 60 PT

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 16/19 PT

REGULAR ALL CAPS

REGULAR

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

THE SPANISH WAR, which began in 1739, and the French war which soon followed it occasioned further increase of the debt, which, on the 31st of December 1748, after it had been concluded by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, amounted to £78,293,313. The most profound peace of the seventeen years of continuance had taken no more than £8,328,354 from it. A war of less than nine years' continuance added £31,338,689 to it (Refer to James Postlethwaite's History of the Public Revenue). During the administration of Mr. Pelham, the interest of the public debt was reduced from 4% to 3%; or at least measures were taken for reducing it, from four to three per cent; the sinking fund was increased, and some part of the public debt was paid off. In 1755, before the breaking out of the late war, the funded debt of Great Britain amounted to £72,289,673. On the 5th of January 1763, at the conclusion of the peace, the funded debt amounted to £122,603,336. The unfunded debt has been stated at £13,927,589. But the expense occasioned by the war did not end with the conclusion of the peace, so that though, on the 5th of January 1764, the funded debt was increased (partly by a new loan, and partly by funding a part of the unfunded debt) to £129,586,78, there still remained (according to the very well informed author of Considerations on the Trade and Finances of Great Britain) an unfunded debt which was brought to account

DUPLICATE SLAB LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, MEDIUM, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence.

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence.

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[NO ALTERNATES]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence.

DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[ALTERNATE Q a g y 6 9]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence.

---

 DUPLICATE SLAB REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 9/11 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into

---

 DUPLICATE SLAB MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, BLACK, 9/11 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to

---

Duplicate Ionic

---

The bracketed serifs & ball terminals of the traditional Clarendon, also known as Ionic, first emerged in Britain in the middle of the 19th century. While combining these structures with a contemporary interpretation of Antique Olive seems counterintuitive, the marriage feels surprisingly natural. Mark Porter and Simon Esterson used the family first in their 2013 redesign of the Neue Züricher Zeitung am Sonntag.

---

PUBLISHED
2013

DESIGNED BY
MIGUEL REYES AND CHRISTIAN SCHWARTZ

12 STYLES
6 WEIGHTS W/ ITALICS

FEATURES
PROPORTIONAL LINING FIGURES
TABULAR LINING FIGURES
SUPERSCRIP/T/SUBSCRIPT
FRACTIONS (PREBUILT AND ARBITRARY)

Because the Ionic genre has long been a common choice for text in newspapers, Duplicate Ionic is a natural choice for long texts. The romans are a collaboration between Christian Schwartz and Miguel Reyes, but the italic is fully Reyes's creation, departing from the sloped romans seen in Duplicate Sans and Slab with a true cursive. Duplicate Ionic is intended for both text & headline use, in a range of six weights.

LINDISFARNE
Sammenlignes

DUPLICATE IONIC THIN, 70 PT

DESIGNATION
Epigravettiano

DUPLICATE IONIC THIN ITALIC, 70 PT

DÉRACINANT
Onregelmattige

DUPLICATE IONIC LIGHT, 70 PT [ALTERNATE R]

SISTEMÁTICO
Beispielsweise

DUPLICATE IONIC LIGHT ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE C]

PIERWOTNIE
Archiviazione

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, 70 PT

LINGÜÍSTICA
Verschmelzen

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR ITALIC, 70 PT

PANTOMIME
Bovenleiding

DUPLICATE IONIC MEDIUM, 70 PT [ALTERNATE g]

NÉANMOINS
Weerkerende

DUPLICATE IONIC MEDIUM ITALIC, 70 PT

ETYMOLOGY
Evemeristica

DUPLICATE IONIC BOLD, 70 PT

BESTONDEN
Iðnvæðingin

DUPLICATE IONIC BOLD ITALIC, 70 PT

VERKETTEN
Wollastonite

DUPLICATE IONIC BLACK, 70 PT [ALTERNATE R]

INSCRIÇÕES
Concussions

DUPLICATE IONIC BLACK ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE C Q]

MET EEN ATOOMMASSA VAN 238,0689 U
 Forty rectilinear chambers flanking  $\frac{7}{8}$  of the
NEARLY 72% OF ALL PATRONS REPORTED
El tratado monástico del siglo XI, la Regla de

DUPLICATE IONIC THIN, THIN ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE R]

ÅR 1911 PÅBÖRJADES FÖRHANDLINGAR
 The Stetson derives its name from an area
EEN BOEK DAT VEEL IS GEKOPIEERD EN
In my younger and more vulnerable years

DUPLICATE IONIC LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, 24 PT

THE WORLD'S GREATEST EXTANT AIR
 Den Atatürk-Stausee (868 km<sup>2</sup>; 89,9 km<sup>3</sup>)
LE SYSTÈME FINANCIER MARCHE MAL
Over sixty-seven jade manks were found

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE C x]

UTILIZZATO DAL X/XI SECOLO AL XIV
Certain historiographic methods tell a
DISTILLED IN EARLY NOVEMBER, 1961
And interpretations? Do they not invite

DUPLICATE IONIC MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a g]

AN ANNUAL PENSION OF £16,296,973
En for længst glemte skik er behøvelig
OBJECTS FIGURE IN THE STUDIES OF
L'abbé Grégoire suit particulièrement

DUPLICATE IONIC BOLD, BOLD ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE g]

THE TOP COUNTERPUNCH OPERATE
Die größte Bank des Landes von Mali
OBWOHL SPÄTESTENS AB ETWA 668
It is assumed that in 1158 a massively

DUPLICATE IONIC BLACK, BLACK ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE C R]

Jordbruksavtalet

DUPLICATE IONIC THIN, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Particulièrement

DUPLICATE IONIC LIGHT, 60 PT

Arquitectónicos

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, 60 PT

Möglicherweise

DUPLICATE IONIC MEDIUM, 60 PT

Alþjóðavæðing

DUPLICATE IONIC BOLD, 60 PT

Epigraphically

DUPLICATE IONIC BLACK, 60 PT

Overcompression

DUPLICATE IONIC THIN ITALIC, 60 PT

Zusammenhang

DUPLICATE IONIC LIGHT ITALIC, 60 PT

Immédiatement

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR ITALIC, 60 PT

Yhdeksäntoista

DUPLICATE IONIC MEDIUM ITALIC, 60 PT

Pengeøkonomi

DUPLICATE IONIC BOLD ITALIC, 60 PT

Manifestações

DUPLICATE IONIC BLACK ITALIC, 60 PT

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 16/19 PT

REGULAR ALL CAPS

REGULAR

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

THE SPANISH WAR, which began in 1739, and the French war which soon followed it occasioned further increase of the debt, which, on the 31st of December 1748, after it had been concluded by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, amounted to £78,293,313. The most profound peace of the seventeen years of continuance had taken no more than £8,328,354 from it. A war of less than nine years' continuance added £31,338,689 to it (Refer to James Postlethwaite's History of the Public Revenue). During the administration of Mr. Pelham, the interest of the public debt was reduced from 4% to 3%; or at least measures were taken for reducing it, from four to three per cent; the sinking fund was increased, and some part of the public debt was paid off. In 1755, before the breaking out of the late war, the funded debt of Great Britain amounted to £72,289,673. On the 5th of January 1763, at the conclusion of the peace, the funded debt amounted to £122,603,336. The unfunded debt has been stated at £13,927,589. But the expense occasioned by the war did not end with the conclusion of the peace, so that though, on the 5th of January 1764, the funded debt was increased (partly by a new loan, and partly by funding a part of the unfunded debt) to £129,586,78, there still remained (according to the very well informed author of Considerations on the Trade and Finances of Great Britain) an unfunded debt which was brought to

---

 DUPLICATE IONIC LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, MEDIUM, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence.

---

 DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[NO ALTERNATES]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established

DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[ALTERNATE Q a g y 6 9]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence.

---

 DUPLICATE IONIC REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 9/11 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did

---

 DUPLICATE IONIC MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, BLACK, 9/11 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two

---

Duplicate Round

---

Rounded sans serifs have brought friendliness to corporate design for decades, periodically going in and out of fashion. These round stroke endings hardly have any effect in a thin weight, however, so Duplicate Round has an unusual solution: ball terminals – similar to the ones in Duplicate Ionic – bring the cheerful effect of rounded strokes to the even the lightest weights.

---

PUBLISHED
2017

DESIGNED BY
MIGUEL REYES AND CHRISTIAN SCHWARTZ

12 STYLES
6 WEIGHTS W/ ITALICS

FEATURES
PROPORTIONAL LINING FIGURES
TABULAR LINING FIGURES
SUPERScript/SUBSCRIPT
FRACTIONS (PREBUILT AND ARBITRARY)

Duplicate Round was first sketched for a children's section in a proposed redesign of a Swedish newspaper. Though the section didn't ultimately launch, the sketches later provided a starting point for Miguel Reyes to adapt Duplicate Round from Duplicate Sans. Though the round endings are primarily intended to bring friendliness to headlines, they don't hinder readability at text sizes, where the ball terminals give an appealing texture.

NORĀDĪTAJĀM
Időszámításunk

DUPLICATE ROUND THIN, 70 PT

AKSELERADOR
Järjestäytynneet

DUPLICATE ROUND THIN ITALIC, 70 PT

APPROXIMATE
Recognizability

DUPLICATE ROUND LIGHT, 70 PT

ESTABLISHING
Principalmemente

DUPLICATE ROUND LIGHT ITALIC, 70 PT

G#AJNEJHOM
Photographers

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, 70 PT [ALTERNATE g]

QUANTIFYING
Expérimentale

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR ITALIC, 70 PT

SYNTHESIZES
Romfarkosten

DUPLICATE ROUND MEDIUM, 70 PT

SEBELUMNYA
Constitutional

DUPLICATE ROUND MEDIUM ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

NEJRŮZNĚJŠÍ
Controversial

DUPLICATE ROUND BOLD, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

EQUILIBRIUM
Spectroscopy

DUPLICATE ROUND BOLD ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE Q y]

INFLUENTIAL
Spätgotische

DUPLICATE ROUND BLACK, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

LISÄYKSESTÄ
Onderzoeken

DUPLICATE ROUND BLACK ITALIC, 70 PT

EMERGENCE OF PROTO-CELTIC LANGUAGE
 Acesta subliniază incongruența dintre gândire
 THE COMMITTEE DECIDED ON THE LAYOUT
 A Form is an objective 'blueprint' of perfection

DUPLICATE ROUND THIN, THIN ITALIC, 24 PT

FORTE CROISSANCE DU XVIIIe SIÈCLE PUIS
 Principais cidades costeiras do Mediterrâneo
 SENERE HISTORIESKRIVNING OM HISPANIA
 Hän palasi Italiaan kesällä 1916 ja vietti ensin

DUPLICATE ROUND LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, 24 PT

6,794 PILOTS AND FLIGHT CONTROLLERS
 The financial performance of the company
 MY PLAY WASN'T MADE FOR THIS HOUSE
 Das Wort „Surrealismus“ bedeutet wörtlich

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE ROMAN a 6 9]

CHE FU INTRODOTTA IL 9 OTTOBRE 1948
Roman culture in the early eighth century
ANG 2005 NA POPULASYON NA 1,718,124
Sebelah barat lautnya berbatasan dengan

DUPLICATE ROUND MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE g, ITALIC a]

O TEXTO VOTADO EM 1949 INTRODUZIU
He began to expand the city northwards
UNE PIÈCE DE THÉÂTRE EN DEUX ACTES
Både krigens redsler og forakten for det

DUPLICATE ROUND BOLD, BOLD ITALIC, 24 PT

REVERSING THEIR OLD ARRANGEMENT
Þegar þeir lýsa með orðum því sem þeir
THESE AREAS WERE SURVEYED IN 1837
Fundamentaalsetele loodusteadustele

DUPLICATE ROUND BLACK, BLACK ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE g y]

Zoarchaeological

DUPLICATE ROUND THIN, 60 PT

Rapsölproduktion

DUPLICATE ROUND LIGHT, 60 PT

Transcontinental

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Växthuseffekten

DUPLICATE ROUND MEDIUM, 60 PT

Electromagnets

DUPLICATE ROUND BOLD, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Organizzazione

DUPLICATE ROUND BLACK, 60 PT [ALTERNATE g]

Maanjärityksessä

DUPLICATE ROUND THIN ITALIC, 60 PT

Ornamentaciones

DUPLICATE ROUND LIGHT ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Xanthocyanopsy

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE y]

Brobdingnagian

DUPLICATE ROUND MEDIUM ITALIC, 60 PT

Éclaircissement

DUPLICATE ROUND BOLD ITALIC, 60 PT

Parenthetically

DUPLICATE ROUND BLACK ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 16/19 PT

REGULAR ALL CAPS

REGULAR

BOLD

PROPORTIONAL
OLDSTYLE FIGURES

REGULAR ITALIC

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

THE SPANISH WAR, which began in 1739, and the French war which soon followed it occasioned further increase of the debt, which, on the 31st of December 1748, after it had been concluded by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, amounted to £78,293,313. The most profound peace of the seventeen years of continuance had taken no more than £8,328,354 from it. A war of less than nine years' continuance added £31,338,689 to it (Refer to James Postlethwaite's History of the Public Revenue). During the administration of Mr. Pelham, the interest of the public debt was reduced from 4% to 3%; or at least measures were taken for reducing it, from four to three per cent; the sinking fund was increased, and some part of the public debt was paid off. In 1755, before the breaking out of the late war, the funded debt of Great Britain amounted to £72,289,673. On the 5th of January 1763, at the conclusion of the peace, the funded debt amounted to £122,603,336. The unfunded debt has been stated at £13,927,589. But the expense occasioned by the war did not end with the conclusion of the peace, so that though, on the 5th of January 1764, the funded debt was increased (partly by a new loan, and partly by funding a part of the unfunded debt) to £129,586,78, there still remained (according to the very well informed author of Considerations on the Trade and Finances of Great Britain) an unfunded debt which was brought to account in that and the follow-

---

 DUPLICATE ROUND LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, MEDIUM, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

---

 DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed,

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[NO ALTERNATES]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed,

DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[ALTERNATE Q a g y 6 9]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

---

 DUPLICATE ROUND REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 9/11 PT [TRACKING +4]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into a joint stock. A few private traders, whose subscriptions amounted only to seven thousand

---

 DUPLICATE ROUND MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, BLACK, 9/11 PT [TRACKING +4]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into a joint stock. A few private traders, whose

---

Duplicate Soft

---

Duplicate Round is designed to look “rounder than round,” even in the thinnest weights, thanks to the distinctive ball terminals on many lowercase and even some uppercase characters. Duplicate Soft is its straightforward counterpoint, with simple rounded stroke endings that feel friendly without being overly jolly or looking at all childish.

---

PUBLISHED
2017

DESIGNED BY
MIGUEL REYES AND CHRISTIAN SCHWARTZ

12 STYLES
6 WEIGHTS W/ ITALICS

FEATURES
PROPORTIONAL LINING FIGURES
TABULAR LINING FIGURES
SUPERSCRIP/T/SUBSCRIPT
FRACTIONS (PREBUILT AND ARBITRARY)

Where Duplicate Round has a complex and lively texture, Duplicate Soft is plain and undemanding. The thinning at intersections where the arches and bowls meet the stems in the lowercase give a more stylish feeling than a typical mono-weight rounded sans serif might have. Its range of six weights matches the rest of the Duplicate families, though the rounding on the Thin weight is really only noticeable from 60pt and up.

DILUNCURKAN
Paleoecologista

DUPLICATE SOFT THIN, 70 PT

ÜHEKIHILISEKS
Characterizings

DUPLICATE SOFT THIN ITALIC, 70 PT

SYNONYMOUS
Détérioreraient

DUPLICATE SOFT LIGHT, 70 PT

IMPOSSIBILITY
Accompanying

DUPLICATE SOFT LIGHT ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE g]

EXCEPTIONAL
Reputationally

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

YÜZYILLARDA
Formulaciones

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR ITALIC, 70 PT

AQUAMANILE
Géométriques

DUPLICATE SOFT MEDIUM, 70 PT

BEACHFRONT
Hagyományos

DUPLICATE SOFT MEDIUM ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a g y]

SØLVGLITTER
Chairmanship

DUPLICATE SOFT BOLD, 70 PT [ALTERNATE a]

MONOCOQUE
Circumstance

DUPLICATE SOFT BOLD ITALIC, 70 PT [ALTERNATE Q a]

SEQUENCERS
Transporting

DUPLICATE SOFT BLACK, 70 PT [ALTERNATE g]

LAMPIONÓW
Specializzate

DUPLICATE SOFT BLACK ITALIC, 70 PT

HOEWEL HIJ IN 1907 ZIJN DIPLOMA HAALDE
The 17 kilometer trek north to Cala del Carnaje
NO TRIVIALIZÁNDOLO NI SIMPLIFICÁNDOLO
Modernist villa at the center of an ancient city

DUPLICATE SOFT THIN, THIN ITALIC, 24 PT

SARSEN'S NOVEL THEORY OF UTILIZATION
Around the time of several earlier recordings
CHARAKTERISTIK VON SOULKOMPOSITION
Yüzyılın yeni ve büyük entelektüel gelişmeleri

DUPLICATE SOFT LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE a]

SHE TRAINED LARGELY AS A DRAFTSMAN
În miturile timpurii, acești zei au chiar puteri
THE ROYAL SOCIETY'S INITIAL FOUNDERS
Exposeerden hun werk tussen 1874 en 1896

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, 24 PT

VOKIEČIŲ EKSPRESIONIZMAS DAUG KUO
Scholars arranged 400 types of silk books
KOJI SU SE TIJEKOM ŠEZDESETIH POPELI
Sealed in 204 BCE under the Han dynasty

DUPLICATE SOFT MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, 24 PT [ALTERNATE g y]

214.53 NA KUWADRADO NG KILOMETRO
Examine morphology & taxonomic traits
EARLIEST-KNOWN EDITION FROM 9 BCE
The exact dates of the school's founding

DUPLICATE SOFT BOLD, BOLD ITALIC, 24 PT

COMMON MAINLY IN FUNGI & ANIMALS
Einnig skrifaði hann mjög efnismikið rit
POZNATKY ČLENŮ JSOU OD ROKU 2007
Some characters used in the later texts

DUPLICATE SOFT BLACK, BLACK ITALIC, 24 PT

Electrophysiologic

DUPLICATE SOFT THIN, 60 PT

Reprezentujących

DUPLICATE SOFT LIGHT, 60 PT

Instrumentations

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, 60 PT

Correspondence

DUPLICATE SOFT MEDIUM, 60 PT

Enthusiastically

DUPLICATE SOFT BOLD, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a y]

Modernizavimą

DUPLICATE SOFT BLACK, 60 PT

Muurschilderingen

DUPLICATE SOFT THIN ITALIC, 60 PT

Cytoarchitectonic

DUPLICATE SOFT LIGHT ITALIC, 60 PT

Biogeochemically

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a g y]

Pseudepigrapha

DUPLICATE SOFT MEDIUM ITALIC, 60 PT

Contemporânea

DUPLICATE SOFT BOLD ITALIC, 60 PT [ALTERNATE a]

Schauspielhaus

DUPLICATE SOFT BLACK ITALIC, 60 PT

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 16/19 PT

REGULAR ALL CAPS

REGULAR

BOLD

PROPORTIONAL
OLDSTYLE FIGURES

REGULAR ITALIC

BOLD

REGULAR ITALIC

THE SPANISH WAR, which began in 1739, and the French war which soon followed it occasioned further increase of the debt, which, on the 31st of December 1748, after it had been concluded by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, amounted to £78,293,313. The most profound peace of the seventeen years of continuance had taken no more than £8,328,354 from it. A war of less than nine years' continuance added £31,338,689 to it (Refer to James Postlethwaite's History of the Public Revenue). During the administration of Mr. Pelham, the interest of the public debt was reduced from 4% to 3%; or at least measures were taken for reducing it, from four to three per cent; the sinking fund was increased, and some part of the public debt was paid off. In 1755, before the breaking out of the late war, the funded debt of Great Britain amounted to £72,289,673. On the 5th of January 1763, at the conclusion of the peace, the funded debt amounted to £122,603,336. The unfunded debt has been stated at £13,927,589. But the expense occasioned by the war did not end with the conclusion of the peace, so that though, on the 5th of January 1764, the funded debt was increased (partly by a new loan, and partly by funding a part of the unfunded debt) to £129,586,78, there still remained (according to the very well informed author of Considerations on the Trade and Finances of Great Britain) an unfunded debt which was brought to account in that and the follow-

---

 DUPLICATE SOFT LIGHT, LIGHT ITALIC, MEDIUM, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

---

 DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[NO ALTERNATES]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 10/12 PT
[ALTERNATE Q a g y 6 9]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very art-

---

 DUPLICATE SOFT REGULAR, REGULAR ITALIC, BOLD, 9/11 PT [TRACKING +4]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into a joint stock. A few private traders, whose subscriptions amounted only to seven thousand

---

 DUPLICATE SOFT MEDIUM, MEDIUM ITALIC, BLACK, 9/11 PT [TRACKING +4]

THE OLD ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY was established in 1600 and granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth. In the first twelve voyages which they fitted out for India, they appear to have traded mainly in cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. In 1612, they united into a joint stock. Their charter was exclusive, and though not confirmed by Act of Parliament, was in those days supposed to convey a real exclusive privilege.

Exclusive privilege of the Royal Charter

For many years, therefore, they were not much disturbed by interlopers. Their capital, which never exceeded £744,000, and of which £50 was a share, was not so exorbitant, nor their dealings that extensive, as to afford either a pretext for gross negligence and profusion, or a cover to gross malversation. Notwithstanding some extraordinary losses, occasioned partly by the malice of the Dutch East India Company, and partly by other accidents, they carried on for many years a successful trade. But in process of time, when the principles of liberty were better understood, it became every day more and more doubtful how far a Royal Charter, not confirmed by Act of Parliament, could convey an exclusive privilege. Upon all these questions the decisions of the courts of justice were not uniform, but varied with the authority of government and the humours of the times.

Outside Influences on the Company

Interlopers multiplied upon them, and towards the end of the reign of Charles II, through the whole of that of James II and during a part of that of William III, reduced them to great distress. In 1698, a proposal was made to Parliament of advancing two millions to government at eight per cent, provided the subscribers were erected into a new East India Company with exclusive privileges. The old East India Company offered seven hundred thousand pounds, nearly the amount of their capital, at four per cent upon the same conditions. But such was at that time the state of public credit, that it was more convenient for government to borrow two millions at eight per cent than seven hundred thousand pounds at four. The proposal of the new subscribers was accepted, and a new East India Company established in consequence. The old East India Company, however, had a right to continue their trade till 1701. They had, at the same time, in the name of their treasurer, subscribed, very artfully, three hundred and fifteen thousand pounds into the stock of the new. By a negligence in the expression of the Act of Parliament which vested the East India trade in the subscribers to this loan of two millions, it did not appear evident that they were all obliged to unite into a joint stock. A few private traders, whose

INCLUDED FAMILIES

Duplicate Sans
 Duplicate Slab
 Duplicate Ionic
 Duplicate Round
 Duplicate Soft

SUPPORTED LANGUAGES

Afrikaans, Albanian, Asturian, Basque, Breton, Bosnian, Catalan, Cornish, Croatian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, English, Esperanto, Estonian, Faroese, Finnish, French, Galician, German, Greenlandic, Guarani, Hawaiian, Hungarian, Ibo, Icelandic, Indonesian, Irish, Gaelic, Italian, Kurdish, Latin, Latvian, Lithuanian, Livonian, Malagasy, Maltese, Maori, Moldavian, Norwegian, Occitan, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Romansch, Saami, Samoan, Scots, Scottish Gaelic, Serbian (Latin), Slovak, Slovenian, Spanish (Castilian), Swahili, Swedish, Tagalog, Turkish, Walloon, Welsh, Wolof

CONTACT

Commercial Type
 110 Lafayette Street, #203
 New York, New York 10013

office 212 604-0955
 fax 212 925-2701
www.commercialtype.com

COPYRIGHT

© 2017 Commercial Type.
 All rights reserved.
 Commercial® is a registered trademark & Duplicate™ is a trademark of Schwartzco Inc., dba Commercial Type.

Antique Olive® is a registered trademark of Marcel Olive.

This file may be used for evaluation purposes only.

ABOUT THE DESIGNERS

Christian Schwartz (born 1977) is a partner, along with Paul Barnes, in Commercial Type, a foundry based in New York and London. A graduate of Carnegie Mellon University, Schwartz worked at MetaDesign Berlin and Font Bureau prior to spending several years working on his own before forming Schwartzco Inc. in 2006 and Commercial Type in 2008. Schwartz has published fonts with many respected independent foundries, and has designed proprietary typefaces for corporations and publications worldwide.

Schwartz's typefaces have been honored by the Smithsonian's Cooper Hewitt National Design Museum, the New York Type Directors Club, and the International Society of Typographic Designers, and his work with Barnes has been honored by D&AD. As part of the team that redesigned The Guardian, they were shortlisted for the Designer of the Year prize by the Design Museum in London. Schwartz and Barnes also were named two of the 40 most influential designers under 40 by *Wallpaper**, and Schwartz was included in Time magazine's 2007 'Design 100'. In early 2007, Schwartz and German design luminary Erik Spiekermann were awarded a gold medal by the German Design Council (Rat für Formgebung) for the typeface system they designed for Deutsche Bahn.

Miguel Reyes (born 1984), originally from Puebla, Mexico, studied graphic design at Benemérita Universidad Autónoma de Puebla before working as a type designer, graphic designer, and publication designer in Barcelona and Mexico City, then studied type design at CEGestalt, School of Design in Mexico City. He later attended the Type and Media Masters course at KABK in the Hague and began working with Commercial Type at the beginning of 2013, where he has been a staff designer since later that year. His work has been honored by the Latin American Biennial of Typography and by the Fine Press Book Association.